Prague Art Gallery brings world-class contemporary Czech Art to LA

Knupp Gallery in cooperation with the Consulate General of the Czech Republic is pleased to present “Velvet and Glass,” an art exhibition showcasing new art in Knupp Gallery’s flagship gallery space located in downtown LA’s art district at 1923 Santa Fe Ave, Los Angeles.

The exhibition features fine art from the best Czech living masters:

Tomas Spevak, Jan Uldrych, Martin Sarovec, Vaclav Rubeska, Igor Kitzberger, Bohumil Elias Jr. & Sr., Jiri Suhajek, Radek Andrie, Igor Piacka, Marek Slavik and Zdenek Gotz.

LA becomes a gateway for Americans to see art from a nation previously suppressed by the former communist regime in Czechoslovakia. Twenty seven years after becoming democratic, Prague enjoys a dynamic cultural re-birth fueled by a sophisticated art movement with painters and sculptors of the highest caliber expressing a complicated, disruptive and bold history. There is a deep tradition of quality and tradition in art-making in the region, but it has now become energized by a younger generation of artists seeking an international voice.

Knupp Gallery was created to showcase this collective energy to the world. In our LA gallery will be superb examples of painting, sculpture and glasswork for sale to discerning collectors with an interest in new art, radical perspectives, and a sophisticated, informed international aesthetic.

CEO of Knupp Gallery, Ales Knupp comments: “We are very excited to be able to bring the work of these unique young Czech artists to Los Angeles. Their individual spirits and enviable technique evokes a subtle connection with the viewer. We hope that Los Angeles is ready to see this kind of international art.”

The Consulate General of the Czech Republic agrees, “We are so happy to be able to support Knupp Gallery showing art from the Czech Republic in Los Angeles. Modern Czech art is some of the best in the world and bringing these stunning works to America is an important step in establishing Czech art on the world stage.”

Knupp Gallery is an independent Prague-based art gallery focusing on contemporary Czech artists. Their exhibition hall includes both sculptures and paintings.
